“You know how your child gets to school, but do you know what they do once they get there?

“Now is the time to find out!

“Parents make a difference in their child’s education. Take an active role in your child’s learning.

“Parent-teacher conference is an easy way to get involved with your child’s education. Whether it is math, history, or how to deal with peer pressure, parent-teacher conferences give YOU the opportunity to talk about the issues that are important to you with your child’s teacher.

“When you take an active in your child’s education, they are more likely to have higher grades, better school attendance, and lower use of drug and alcohol.

“So contact your child’s school today to schedule a parent-teacher conference appointment.

“Sponsored by the Family –School Connectedness group, helping to build relationships between Twin-City school districts, community organizations, and families.”