Suggested Resources

The parents suggested several resources that have been useful for them.

Books
♦ Understanding facial Recognition Difficulties in Children by Nancy L. Mindick o “I gave [the teacher] this book... it seemed to prove to her that [prosopagnosia] was real.” - Parent w/ 7-year-old o “There is one on children and face blindness, it has some good ideas. But it didn’t work for everything. I keep up with most journal writings.” - Parent w/ 14-year-old ♦ You Don’t Look Like Anyone I Know by Heather Sellers
  o “The last few chapters... provided a lot of insight. More than anything, attending the weekend from U of Minnesota and meeting the other families was the best education.” – Parent w/ First Grader

Yahoo support group
♦ “I also got onto a Yahoo support group on the internet, and asked the members there if the strange things that had happened to us sounded familiar. I also read their past archives looking for experiences from childhood. This was helpful.” - Parent w/ Secondary School Student

Google Alert
♦ “I have found that reading all I can about prosopagnosia has been very helpful. I subscribe to a Google alert so I get an email when an article or blog about prosopagnosia is posted... I do have to read comments and posts made in these two groups with a certain level of objectivity; just because these adults have experienced life a certain way does not mean that my son will.” – Parent w/ 10-year-old
♦ “Some of the CVI information by Mary Morse was helpful.” - Parent w/ First Grader

DISCLAIMER: There is no research to confirm or deny any benefits to you or your child that may result from the information included in Project ProsoFamily. The University of Minnesota does not endorse anything on this page. It is simply words of wisdom from individuals and parents based on their personal experiences for you to adapt as you see fit.