The University of Minnesota IRB consists of more than sixty representatives of faculty, staff, students, and the local community.

The University of Minnesota campuses at Duluth and Morris have IRB representatives.

The University of Minnesota IRB reviews all research involving human subjects, irrespective of the funding source.

This includes research that is funded by federal agencies, state government, foundations, internal grants, departmental funds, etc. (Grants)