

2021 Tucker Center
Fall Distinguished Lecture
The Surveillance of Women in Sport: Multidisciplinary Perspectives

October 27, 2021 • 7-9 p.m. CDT
Free and open to the public

About the Lecture

In the last year, and particularly during the Tokyo Olympics, many issues related to women in sport have arose. With attention to the visibility of women's sport in the current spotlight, the time is right to tackle the topic of continued and perhaps increased surveillance of women athletes and their bodies from a scholarly perspective. This panel of notable multidisciplinary scholars will explore the current environment of the women's sport industry, while discussing ways in which surveillance practices play into the hands of privilege and how it impacts girls and women in sport. Tucker Center director Dr. Nicole M. LaVoi will moderate this informative and lively discussion among experts from multiple scientific perspectives.

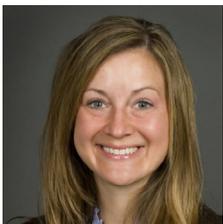

About the Panelists

Dr. Angel Brutus is a member of the U.S. Olympic & Paralympic Committee's Mental Health Services Team as part of the Department of Sports Medicine.

Dr. Ann Pegoraro is the co-director of the E-Alliance, a national network for research on gender equity in Canadian Sport.

Dr. Cheryl Cooky is a professor of American Studies and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at Purdue University.

Anna Posbergh is a PhD candidate and American Association for University Women Dissertation Fellow at the University of Maryland in the Department of Kinesiology.

Dr. Beth Daniels is a research fellow and professor of psychology at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs.

Dr. Jaime Schultz is a professor of kinesiology at The Pennsylvania State University, with an affiliate faculty appointment in Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Dr. Nancy Lough is the co-director of the Sport Research & Innovation Institute and a professor at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Dr. Nefertiti Walker is the Vice Chancellor for Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion and Chief Diversity Officer at UMass Amherst.

Registration: z.umn.edu/tc-DLS-2021-Fall