This Fall’s Distinguished Lecture features Christine Brennan, an award-winning sports columnist for USA Today, best-selling author, and frequent guest commentator on ABC News, ESPN, NPR, and Fox Sports Radio.

Brennan has blazed a pioneering trail for women sports journalists. She has witnessed the impact of Title IX first-hand and will share her insights about the progress yet to be made for female athletes and sports journalists. Brennan will also highlight the role of her father in giving her the support and confidence she needed to excel in the pre-Title IX world of sports. Please join us as Brennan takes us on a remarkable journey, one which she chronicles in her latest book, a memoir entitled Best Seat in the House: A Father, a Daughter, a Journey Through Sports.
